

EDUCATION GOES FURTHER!

Youth work in schools is essential for a high-quality holistic education.

It promotes the development of young people's skills and personalities in the context of non-formal learning.

Youth work in schools helps young people to discover their own potential thus providing valuable guidance on the path to an independent and autonomous adult life.

Youth workers in school are close to young people's everyday lives and spend a lot of time with them in school. They benefit from a particular trust of young people.

They recognise young people's needs and development potential at an early stage and encourage their autonomy in a holistic way.

THE MISSIONS OF YOUTH WORKERS IN SCHOOL ARE:

- to create educational areas that young people can freely use and adapt according to their own interests and needs
- to offer a range of educational activities in and outside secondary schools that give young people new ideas and incentives for their own development
- to foster youth cultures in schools
- to encourage a positive school environment
- to enable relaxed and inspiring moments of social interaction in groups
- to create opportunities for young people to participate and get active in schools
